RE: THE FELIKS GROSS ENDOWMENT AWARD

Dear Colleagues:

As you may know, the CUNY Academy for the Humanities and Sciences presents the Feliks Gross Endowment Award each year to assistant professors – usually two – from any unit of CUNY who, through research undertaking, show promise of making a worthwhile contribution to their field, the university, and academia as a whole. The award for the year 2007 will go to assistant professors in any area of the humanities or sciences including social and life sciences.

The Academy would appreciate your recommending any person from your department or college whom you deem worthy of receiving such an award. The recipients will receive an honorarium of $500 plus a plaque to be presented at a formal ceremony in Spring, 2007.

Please complete the enclosed nominating form at your earliest convenience and note that the deadline for submission of applications is March 31, 2007. The Academy thanks you for your assistance.

Sincerely yours,

Isaias Lerner
President

Henry Wasser
Executive Director

Spring 2007

The Feliks Gross Endowment Award for outstanding research by junior faculty members in the City University of New York: 2007

Awards are granted each year to one or two assistant professors in recognition of outstanding research in the humanities or sciences, including social and life sciences. Any full-time faculty member who is an assistant professor in the University is eligible to be considered for this award.

All submissions for the award must include two letters of support from persons, usually faculty members, who are familiar with the applicant's research. These sponsors need not be members of the CUNY community.

The recipient of the award is to be selected by a committee constituted of members of the Board of The CUNY Academy of the Humanities and Sciences in conjunction with a panel of experts in the applicant's field. The 2007 award will be given for nominations submitted for consideration no later than March 31, 2007.
